COLD FEET AT "C-CY"
(International News Service.)
CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.—All of Cincinnati has come to realize that a team may be down but it is never out until the last man welder has been effaced from the cloudy landscape. And with that awakening the chill of fear pulsed into the bosoms of those who disport the crimson hue of Rhine land. There came a feeling that somehow or other those White Sox gladiators from Chicago may smash their way beyond the Red defenses and carry on until they reach the crest of the baseball world.

Both "Kid" Gleason and Moran predict that they will win today's game. It is believed that either Bill James or Eddie Cicotte will pitch for Chicago, while Sallee, Fisher or Luque may pitch for Cincinnati.

WEATHER COOL
(International News Service.)
CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.—The weather dawned cool and slightly cloudy for the seventh game of the world series today.

(International News Service.)
BOSTON, Oct. 8.—"Weary Willies," "Happy Hooligans" and vagrants of a similar type are being slowly eliminated from society. This was the statement of Robert W. Kelso, executive secretary of the State Board of Charity, in discussing figures which show commitments to the Massachusetts State Farm at Bridgewater was only 42 in July, as against 122 for the same month a year ago.

"The passing of the saloon and improved industrial conditions are responsible," said Mr. Kelso.

Pittsburgh Operators Report That

(International News Service.)

PITTSBURG, Oct. 8.—The first instance of an attempt to destroy property during the steel strike occurred here today when a time bomb was exploded on the roof of the plant of the McKeesport Sheet and Tin Plate Co. No one was injured.

(International News Service.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Two hundred striking steel workers, men who had fought with the American army in Europe and who Sunday donned their overseas uniforms and led a parade of 5,000 strikers and sympathizers in Gary, which resulted in the calling out of federal troops to prevent bloodshed in the Calumet strike district, today donned their uniforms again and went among the strikers; but they are seeking to prevent a repetition of Sunday's demonstration by telling the strikers that the federal troops sent among them are not there to "interfere in the strike" but to protect life and property, and they are emphasizing the fact that while the regular soldiers "do not want to use arms, they will shoot to kill if necessary."

The overseas soldiers responded to a call sent out by Maj. Bye yesterday asking that former overseas men meet him. Maj. Bye told the men of raids made on radical headquarters in Gary, the finding of pictures of Lenin and Trotsky and the seizing of tons of alleged seditious literature, and pictured to the soldiers the radical activities of some of the men who are taking an active part in the strike. When the soldiers heard this they immediately "went to work."

Federal troops are today patrolling the streets of Gary and the entire city is under martial law.

MORE MEN RETURN

(International News Service.)
PITTSBURG, Oct. 8.—Reporting steady returns of strikers to their old jobs, operators in this district were preparing today to start new furnaces and mills. The prediction was made by the manufacturers that the whole district would soon be back to normal.

TO ORGANIZE OIL COMPANY TONIGHT

The first local oil company will be organized tonight at a meeting to be held at 8 o'clock in the City National Bank, Decatur. Lewie Hardage, noted athlete, son of Mrs. M. L. Hardage, of Albany, will arrive from Texas this afternoon to meet with local people interested in the formation of the company.

Mr. Hardage has been in Texas several months and is connected with several oil concerns. It was announced today he had several leases which will be taken up by the local company.

ALLEGED FAKERS
NEARLY GET $60
FROM LOCAL MAN

At least one local citizen came near losing $60 as a result of the activities of alleged fake advertising solicitors here, said to have been representing a non-existent army and navy publication. The local man gave a check which later he withheld payment on saving his money.

The solicitors are said to have represented themselves as soliciting for the "Army and Navy Record," with headquarters at New Orleans. They are said to have operated also in Birmingham and the Chamber of Commerce of the Magic City became interested.

A telegram to Wm. T. Ritter, manager of the Retail Merchants Bureau at New Orleans, asked for details of the publication, but Mr. Ritter's reply was that there is no such publication as the "Army and Navy Record" with headquarters in the regular.

The regular soldiers "do not want to use arms, they will shoot to kill if necessary."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—After a session lasting 80 minutes, President Wilson's industrial conference adjourned today because there was no work to be taken up by the conference sitting as a whole.

The adjournment was proposed by Secretary Lane because, he stated, more could be accomplished by each of the groups—labor, capital and the public—holding individual meetings and each group getting its work in shape for presentation to the conference tomorrow.

After being in session two days, Secretary Lane announced that he had discovered that a great number of the conferees had never been introduced to each other. He ordered a get-together meeting after adjournment.

It was reported about the conference today that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is sponsoring a plan to settle the present industrial unrest on a basis of a one year agreement.

WEIRTON, W. Va., Oct. 8.—Papers taken during the raid on the secret headquarters of the Finnish red guard here yesterday, indicated that a reign of terror throughout the United States had been planned for the Christmas holiday season.

Chief of Police Brooks declared today that a mistake was made in sending the 184 radicals out-of-town after they had been forced to kiss the American flag.

"It's a bad lot," said the chief, "and every city and town should be on the lookout for them."

MINEOLA, Oct. 8.—Assistant secretary of War Crowell, official starter in the trans-continental air race, had a narrow escape from serious injury today when a de Havilland plane in which he was making a flight crashed to earth from a height of 50 feet. The pilot, Capt. Kerr, was also uninjured. The accident was caused by engine trouble.

(International News Service.)

MINEOLA, Oct. 8.—One of the greatest aviation races in the world's history—to San Francisco and return—was started here this morning. Lieut. Macle, driving a de Havilland tour, was the first to leave Roosevelt field.

Lieut. Col. Hartney, famous American ace, was the second to get away.

He took off in a de Havilland at 2:14. Between 50 and 60 planes were scheduled to leave Roosevelt field and about half that number from San Francisco, as simultaneous starts were made from the two sides of the continent. The total distance of the long flight is 5,402 miles.

HOW BRITISH RAILWAY STRIKE AFFECTED US
(Birmingham Ledger.)

The world rejoices that the British railway strike is over. What most pleases is that neither the government nor the strikers claim a one-sided victory. That term implies a sore spot left; a canker of ill will that will develop renewal of strife.

We are not concerned with the basis on which the nine-day strike was ended. We are too far from the scene of action to weigh in any nice balance what it means really, either to the men or to the government. We are not Britons on the ground and therefore, incapable of accurate analysis.

We are especially pleased at the termination of this strike, because it was seriously affecting our commerce. Britain had issued an order forbidding coaling of our ships in British waters pending the strike, and we were forced to stop sailing to Britain for fear of tying up our ships over there.

The immediate result was that our reopening movement of cotton was stopped. The August exports had made a splendid showing compared with those of August, 1918, and cotton prices were advancing when this embargo order was issued. At once we felt it.

It is just another of those simple lessons in our irrefragable connection, for better or for worse, with the remainder of the civilized world. The English strike was a direct blow to American cotton. It was just such a blow to cotton as underproduction in any staple article is one to the American public.

We have got to consider the bearing of basic conditions in their enveloping effects more than we have done. We must consider it in matters of shipping, of transportation, of production, in industrial problems.

If the war has taught one thing more than another, it has taught us we are part and parcel of the same destiny, and that he who disturbs it at any one end is disturbing it in all its parts.

LANE'S DECLARATION OF DEPENDENCE

In his address before President Wilson's industrial conference at Washington yesterday, Secretary of the Interior Lane, the permanent chairman, stated that what America needs is a "declaration of dependence," rather than a declaration of independence. The phrase, a catchy one, is the real keynote of the conference, which in itself is a unique recognition of the dependence of all classes upon each other. This recognition was so sincere that, for the first time, representatives of the public were invited to sit around the table with the representatives of labor and of capital. As a rule the public has been largely overlooked in the discussions and settlements of clashes that may arise between the man who toils and the man who spends.

"Independence," while a glorious thing in connection with the assertion by a people of their right to govern themselves, is an impossibility when it comes to regulating the conditions under which these same people live. The millionaire is dependent upon the farmer for the very food he eats; the working man is dependent upon the operator for the wages he receives; the farmer is dependent upon the public for the market in which he sells his products; everybody is dependent upon somebody for something. There is no such thing as absolute independence in any of the relationships of life. No one recognizes this principle more thoroughly than the union man or the monopolist.

Accepting Mr. Lane's premise as true, the industrial conference has a big mission before it. If it can establish a just and abiding basis upon which the three interests represented can co-operate instead of antagonizing, it will perform a service of the greatest possible worth.

KING ALBERT IS A "REGULAR" MAN

Albert, King of the Belgians, who is now the guest of the nation, is shattering some of the preconceived ideas which Americans in general entertained of royalty. Instead of being a grim, preternaturally solemn and exceedingly dignified gentleman, mindful of his importance and weighed down with his responsibilities, he is quite the reverse. In fact, the young ruler is what in the vernacular is termed a "regular fellow." He is light-hearted and boyish, adventuresome and cordial. Twenty-four hours after he landed at Hoboken he was seeing New York from an aeroplane, and a few days later he was handling the throttle of the special train that is carrying the royal party westward. At Cleveland he accepted a package of cigarettes as a gift from a Red Cross girl. Twenty years ago he was in the United States incognito and was selling books or tackling jobs as a civil engineer. He is versatile, accomplished, capable of doing many things well. Despite the horrors of war and the experiences he has undergone since that time, he has not lost that charm of personality that would have made him popular had he merely been born a private citizen. Should this wholesome and heroic monarch find the time, he might come to the States and be elected to office, for he is democratic and popular.

RATTLER COMES HIGH

A new traffic was started here yesterday afternoon when a visitor to Albany brought in a huge rattle snake, with 10 buttons, and offered it for sale to County Solicitor T. C. Allen. The snake was on display this morning in front of the Decatur Drug company.

Voice of the People

The Editor,

Dear Sir:

The Navy is pulling off the greatest advertising campaign in its history. Every patriot is expected to help it along. Jack Lait, the story writer, answers the call of Navy's recruiting campaign with "Lead me to it" and to this he added.

"All my life I have longed for a vacation. Each time one of my surviving hairs begins to turn grey I repeat my resolve. The years have been busy. They have cheated me. But the day is coming when I shall lay aside my work and fare forth on the great adventure I have always dreamed.

The gateway of that adventure will be the recruiting office of a Navy station. If they try to shunt me by telling me I'm too old, I'll have a clever comeback for 'em—a man is always as old as he feels. And in the Navy a man can't be old, for he can't feel old. He can't feel old because there are present none of the economic pests of civilian life.

Oh, boy! No rent to pay. No taxes. No first of the month. Dinners, but no after-dinner speeches. Income, but no income-tax. The Navy Department is working on a wrong track. They should charge people money to join the Navy. It's the only form of education I know of which is essentially co-related to pleasure, sport and recreation. It is the apotheosis of workshops, the perfect university, the great playground. Every son of woman should feel the touch of the deck, the seep of the breeze through his hair, the salt of the sea in his nostrils.

Service—that's alright. Duty fine. Obligations—great.

But a man must be selfish. There's the sea. No, the sea. Lead me to it."

"Nuxated Iron Put Added Power Behind My Punch" Says Jack Dempsey—Tiger Of The Ring

Heavyweight Champion of the World Tells A Secret of the Training Which Helped Get Him Into Such Superb Condition That He Was Able to Whip the Mighty Jess Willard and Prove Himself

Jack Kearns, Manager for Dempsey, Jimmy DeForest, Chief Trainer, and Others Give Opinions—How Nuxated Iron Helps Strengthen the Nerves, Restore Wasted Tissue, and Build RED BLOOD, STRENGTH and ENDURANCE.

Since his overwhelming victory at Toledo when he wrested the World's Championship title from the Gorilla-like Jess Willard, Jack Dempsey, the David and Goliath of the Fighting World—Jack Kearns, his manager, and Jimmy De Forest, his chief trainer, have been besieged with inquiries as to the methods employed in rounding him into such superb condition. That Jack Dempsey used Nuxated Iron as a part of the training is now common knowledge, and this marvelous physical development as to make him a veritable human dynamo, should prove conclusively the great value he attaches to this natural strength and blood builder and his explains below why he now recommends it to others.

Just as when a man's life is at stake, physicians seek only the tried and proven treatment, so when the World's Champion comes to the salons, Dempsey's trainers did not stop to experiment with metallic iron preparations—Nux and Iron—or other products of questionable value, but they insisted upon having only genuine Nuxated Iron, which they felt could be readily relied upon to help build red blood, power and stamina.

In connection with this feature of his training regarding which Dempsey himself makes a statement below, Jimmy De Forest, the Champion's Chief Trainer, says: "For several weeks previous to July 4th I was in sole charge of the training and preparing of Jack Dempsey for his fight with Jess Willard. During the training period Dempsey was regularly given by me Nuxated Iron and I believe it contributed to his success."

The importance that the Champion himself places upon the part Nuxated Iron played in winning for him the highest laurels known in the athletic world is clearly shown in the following statement made by Jack Dempsey at his training quarters in Toledo, the scene of the big battle, when he said: "After commencing the use of Nuxated Iron during my training for the big fight with Jess Willard, I soon noted that I could stand longer and strain less fatigued than before, and I realized that I had found a tonic and blood builder which played an important part in getting me into fine condition. Formerly I had relied solely upon strength training foods and cutting exercises to keep my blood rich in red corpuscles, but with the World's Championship at stake, I felt that I should leave nothing undone that might help me to

THOUGHT

Little Laughter-Wrinkles
There's lots of things of beauty; you can find 'em everywhere—
The jeweled earth, the topaz sea, the diamond-dusted air.
But if you want the beautiful to live with, I advise
A girl with laughter-wrinkles in the corners of her eyes!

There's nothing like 'em underneath
this blue enameled dome
To make a man feel happy in the place he calls his home;
A girl just can't look mad or mean,
no matter how she tries,
With little laughter-wrinkles in the corners of her eyes.

Let others look for money, or a proud patrician face;
For dummies to display and wear their diamonds* and lace;
I will not be contented till I find earth's biggest prize—
The girl with laughter-wrinkles in the corner of her eyes.

AMERICANS WILL BE THERE

Opportunities Offered in Abyssinia Are by No Means Likely to Be Long

After his visit to the United States one of the Abyssinian visitors admitted that he knew now why there were no Americans in Abyssinia. As he had seen him at home, the American, so he was stranger from Abyssinia decided not to give up so easily. He wants to get to Abyssinia, with nothing faster than a pack mule, offers no induc-ments of rapid transportation. "That seems," said the Abyssinian, "has kept the American man out of our country. It is too bad. We need ridges like yours, we need streets like yours, and we need men like yours to lure the building of them." Commercially and industrially, however, the truth probably is that Abyssinia has not been "discovered," and when that happens the American man will come and build his own rapid transportation. The mere statement that the capital, Addis Ababa, is a city of some 40,000 inhabitants and no railway connection with the outside world is a temptation.—Christian Science Monitor.

Birds Have Right of Way.

Fowl have the right of way in air, says the director of military aeronautics. This is justice indeed, since birds flew first.

But this is not all. Recently many owls along the Atlantic coast have been visited with dead bird showers.
Birds flying by a town would see a lock of wild fowl coming their way.
They would set their machine guns and let the bullets fly.

Presently a prominent citizen walking below would be hit with a large deadly bird. He complained to the own, and the town complained to the Department of agriculture. Then the ederal migratory bird law between the United States and Great Britain was referred to, and it was found that hooting birds from airplanes is un-awful.

The Wrong Man.

When I was an eighteen-year-old boy I was keeping house in my mother's absence and received word from an old friend of the family, of whom was very fond, that he was to be our host for a day or two. Toward evening when the doorbell rang I told our little colored maid to answer it and show Mr. Blank into the living room.

I rushed into the room which was dark, some minutes later and drew my arms around the gentleman to rose to greet me and kissed him soundly only to hear a strange voice say, "I called to see if I could interest you in a wonderful set of books I am hawking today."

I backed to the light and turned it on to view a perfect stranger—a book agent. But Mr. Blank's timely arrival just then saved a little of my embarrassing explanation.—Chicago Tribune.

Triple Tone Electric Bell.

Three separate and distinct sounds are given by an electric bell which operates on ordinary lighting current by means of a transformer. In the home the bell can be connected with pushbuttons installed at three different points—front, kitchen and side, for example. When one button is pressed a clear ring results, when the second is operated a buzz is produced, and then the third button is pushed a combination buzz and ring results. In the office or shop this bell will prove most useful, since it can be used to call three different persons without necessitating them to count the number of rings, as must often be done when the customary signaling is employed. This bell has no contact points to burn out and no batteries to replace.

The Fragrant Weed.

The use of tobacco was first discovered in America when Columbus, in 1492, sent his first party to explore the island of Cuba. It was first observed that these herbs were burned and carried by the natives to perfume themselves. It was later discovered that these herbs were also used for chewing, and later as America was opened up and explored, it was observed that they were smoked in large quantities.

TOWNS NOT FATED TO LIVE

Communities East and West, Founded in High Hopes, Are Now Practically Things Forgotten.

Western papers tell their readers that the town of Emerson, Okla., is shortly to be a thing forgotten, remarks the Hartford Courant. It was mapped out as a town site shortly after the territory was opened for settlement, and the promoters had dreams of a metropolis. In 1907 the plan was abandoned, and now the district court has been asked to vacate the land for town site purposes, when what might have been a town will become farm land.

The story of Emerson suggests what came near happening to a Connecticut town in the beginnings of the colony. Those interested in it showed rare sense in their choice of a site, and in their dreams planned not for a town but for a city. Hampden and Cromwell were to be among its citizens; the cream of England, so its promoters hoped, were to become its citizens. Fate ordered otherwise, and the early days of this dream town are remembered now largely through Lion Gardner's account of his struggle to hold the site against the attacks of the Indians.

Other states, notably the mining commonwealths of the West, can duplicate the story from Oklahoma, but few can equal the romance of the Connecticut settlement.

Village Proud of War Record.
The little Norfolk village of Old Buckingham is proud of its war record. Its total male population between the ages of eighteen and fifty in 1914 was 264. Of that number no fewer than 170 served with the forces and 89 have given their lives for their country.

In their honor a memorial cross has been erected on the village green, an exact reproduction of the "cross of sacrifice" designed by Sir Reginald Bloomfield, R. A., for all British military cemeteries abroad. The total height from the ground line to the top of the cross is 24 feet 6 inches. It is built of stone and the names of those men of the village who fell in the war are inscribed in gilt on the drum below the base of the cross.

The sacrifice of Old Buckingham is typical of every British village.

FALSE ALARM FOR HUTSVILLE MAN

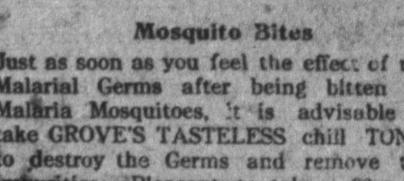

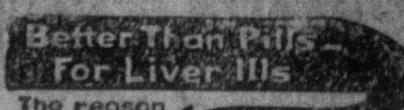

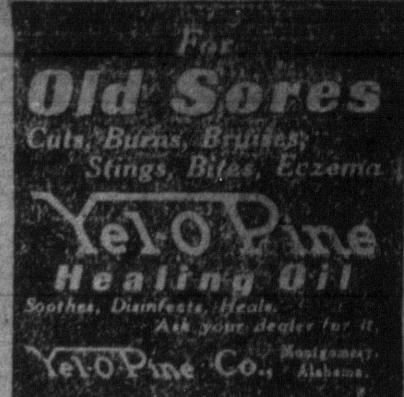

Thought the bad heart trouble, but it turned out to be gas on his stomach, pressing against his heart. Dreco relieved all his troubles.

"I thought I had heart trouble, and was very careful about getting excited, or taking too much exercise for fear of the results," states Mr. C. E. Young of No. 10 Yarbrough Avenue, Huntsville, Ala., who is a well known sign painter of this city.

"Sometimes I'd get terribly scared from the way my heart felt; I was also badly constipated; my liver was sluggish; I could not sleep well, and I noticed after eating I'd fill up with sour gas. In fact my stomach and digestion gave me a lot of trouble, lost a lot of weight; my sleep was broken, and I frequently had backache. I have taken Dreco now for about two weeks, and the change in my condition is easily seen. As soon as by bowels get to acting well and my stomach got rid of that gas, I found that my heart was alright after all, but it was only the gas pressing against it that restricted its action. My appetite is great—have gained nine pounds; never have a dizzy spell, nor a backache, and sleep like a baby. Dreco is the greatest medicine I ever saw."

Many people are daily testing the merits of Dreco in cases of gastritis, headaches, constipation, pains in the back and limbs, catarrh, nervousness, rheumatism and general debility. It increases the appetite; soothes tired nerves; rouses the sluggish liver; and drives the impurities from the blood. Being made from the juices of roots, herbs, barks and berries, it does not contain any mercury, potash or other harmful minerals.

All good druggists throughout the country now sell Dreco and it is highly recommended in Albany by Albany Drug Co. and in Decatur by Hild Drug Co.—Advertisement.

NOT SICK AND NOT WELL

In The Peculiar Situation Described, ZIRON Iron Tonic Is Found Helpful.

It often happens that the organs of your body do not function properly, for some reason or other. There is nothing really wrong, and you are not sick. But certainly you are not well, either.

If you are in such a condition, read what Mr. Wm. M. Bass, Rt. 1, Crossville, Ala., did, and try Ziron Iron Tonic, as he did. Mr. Bass says:

"I am nearly always pretty well and strong and do not need much medicine excepting for headaches. But, recently, when I had not been feeling very well for a while, I knew I needed some sort of medicine to make me all right.

I took Ziron and it made me strong and well again."

Ziron puts iron into the blood, and, by doing this, may prevent a serious attack of illness, which you are liable to "catch" at any time if your system is weakened or your condition below par.

Ziron has well proven its value as a tonic. Try it when you feel the least bit out of sorts, not quite as good as usual, tired and weary.

Your druggist sells Ziron on a money-back guarantee.

"I was taken sick, seemed to be . . .," writes Mrs. Mary E. Veste, of Madison Heights, Va. "I got down so weak, could hardly walk . . . just staggered around.

"I read of Cardui, and after taking one bottle, or before taking quite all, I felt much better. I took 3 or 4 bottles at that time, and was able to do my work. I take it in the spring when rundown. I had no appetite, and I commenced eating. It is the best tonic I ever saw." Try Cardui.

FORMER HEIR TO THRONE A WRITER

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE BUSY WRITING BOOK WHILE IN EXILE ON DREARY DUTCH ISLAND.

By HARRY DE WINDT,
Special Correspondent International
News Service and London Daily Express.

WIJERINGEN, Oct. 8.—Wijeringen is less remote and isolated than it appears to be on the map. I am now staying at a tiny, comfortable inn at Hypoclytus-Hof, a Dutch toy-like little town in the centre of the island, with a telegraph office, telephones and electric light. The ex-Crown Prince lives at Oostersund, two miles away, in a small, seven-room house, with three German ex-officers in attendance, and here the best of everything, in the shape of food, wines and cigars, finds its way from Amsterdam.

The Kaiser's son likes seeing casual visitors, which, considering the dullness of his life and surroundings, is not surprising. He would have received me but for the arrival of a couple of attractive and daintily-gowned ladies, of unknown nationality, who crossed with me from the mainland. They had travelled from afar, in a large motor car, bound on the same errand as myself. On arrival at Wijeringen the car was quickly landed and rushed away to Oostersund, at the other extremity of the island. I caught sight, later in the day, of the once exalted host, who appeared to be in excellent health and spirits, and who, I was told, has rendered himself as popular here as he is the reverse on the mainland. In Amsterdam the book shops were full of comic postcards depicting "Little Willie" as an object of contempt and ridicule, whereas on Wijeringen I saw his ordinary photograph, in uniform, almost reverently produced for sale at the little inn at Hypoclytus-Hof.

The latter boasts of one solitary and antiquated taxicab, the driver of which, one Kaan, is the ex-Crown Prince's favored and constant associate, with whom he often plays billiards, football and swims in the sea. Kaan is in charge of the motorcycle on which the exile frequently scorches aimlessly up and down the island. He has only once been permitted to leave it (last December) in order to visit the Kaiserin at Amersfoort, in Holland, for forty-eight hours.

Little Willie, who is now a voracious reader of French and English novels, is writing a book (presumably his memoirs), and passes much of his time indoors, smoking innumerable cigarettes and painting the portraits of local female friends and acquaintances. Kaan proudly showed me one of his sisters in a large leather frame, surmounted by a crownless "W" in gold, which he informed me had been specially ordered for her from Berlin.

Summer sunshine and greenery alone render Wijeringen tolerable. What must the place be like throughout the brief gray days and endless nights of Winter, when the cold is intense and the island, half buried in snow, is constantly swept by furious gales and blizzards from the North Sea?

AMUSEMENTS

VIOLA DANA HAS CLEVER
ROLE IN "SOME BRIDE"

Brilliant Metro Comedy-Drama to be Shown at the Delite Theatre
Thursday.

"Some Bride," the latest Metro comedy-drama in which Viola Dana appears, will be the feature at the Delite theatre on Thursday.

The play tells of a young bride who, though she loves her husband, cannot refrain from flirting with other men. His jealousy and her determination to have a good time leads them to the breaking point and he is on the verge of getting a divorce when her woman's wit comes to her rescue and, by a strategic move, she regains both his love and confidence.

The play is the latest word in smart comedy and the role in which Viola Dana is seen gives her full scope for her unusual and clever talents.

Others of the notable cast are Irving Cummings, Ruth Sinclair, Billy Mason and Florence Carpenter. Henry Otto directed the production which was made under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger, Director General.

MUTT AND JEFF IN A NEW PLAY COMING TO MASONIC
FRIDAY NIGHT, OCT. 10

You'll remember that our heroes, Mutt and Jeff, succeeded in properly opening the new canal at "Panama," looked over the "Mexican" situation attending "College," celebrated their "Wedding" repenting their rash act by being "discovered," tried their luck in the "Woolly West" and now to the "Land of Dreams."

"Mutt and Jeff's Dream" is the title of the new vehicle upon which they will ride to another tremendous success this season. Gus Hill has made a lavish production, even more elaborate than any of his former productions under the Mutt and Jeff standard. The funniest ever is the promise and judging from reports from other cities, that promise well kept. Each successive season finds an entirely new offering which includes book, music, song, scenery, costumes, and last, but not least, pretty girls. "Mutt and Jeff" will never grow old. One never gets tired of laughing. Their adventures in "Dream Land" is one round of hilarious laughter tempered with an unusually pretty bunch of choristers who can sing and dance.

Don't get the idea that "Mutt and Jeff" is old or deteriorating. It is the one musical comedy that has weathered all theatrical storms and will live for years innumerable. It's a play for the entire family without a line or a situation that will bring the blush to the cheeks of young or old.

"Mutt and Jeff's Dream" will be the offering at the Masonic theatre Friday night, October 10th. Seat sale Wednesday.

UNFOLDS GRIPPING STORY

A thrilling story of man's redemption is unfolded in "Laughing Bill Hyde," greatest of all Rex Beach-Goldwyn productions, which comes to the Masonic theatre today. Will Rogers, lariat-thrower of "Follies 'ame," makes his first appearance in the screen in the same role.

Misfortune halts Bill Hyde and Danny Dorgan after they succeed in escaping from prison when Dan falls down a bank and is mortally hurt. Bill carries his pal to a doctor's home, where Dan's last hours are made as comfortable as possible. Bill later makes his way to Alaska, where he meets the doctor, who acquires a claim for treating a dying man. Bill, while searching for work, rushes to the aid of a girl, whom a drunken rowdy is attacking, and beats him off.

She is Ponotah, a half-breed, and she owns half of a mine, though the man in charge, Joseph Slayforth, is trying to rob her of her share. Bill gets a job in that mine and is instrumental in getting Ponotah her full share by methods not altogether scrupulous, but the proper kind to use in dealing with a scoundrel like Slayforth. He recovers a vast amount of gold that employees have stolen and later salts the doctor's claim with some of it, a scheme that fools Slayforth into purchasing it from the doctor. Bill's reward is the doctor's undying friendship, and what is greater, the hand and heart of Ponotah.

Failure to Die Worries Monument Builder

International News Service
BELLALIRE, O., Oct. 8.—Failure of Santa Bardonne to die, as physicians had scheduled, is causing a local monument dealer lots of worry.

Bardonne could not live more than a few days, the learned doctors said. So the sick man made all arrangements for his funeral and ordered an expensive monument "to be paid for thirty days after death." Bardonne did not die. In fact, he picked up immediately after giving the monument order. He says he will keep the monument builder to the contract.

D'ANNUNZIO SAW DESTINY VISION

POET SOLDIER, OF FIUME FAME, WAS GREAT EVEN AS A BOY.

(International News Service.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—As a boy of twelve Gabriele d'Annunzio, the Italian poet who is writing the name of his country, Fiume and himself large in history, has a vision; he saw himself as a great man, a leader, renowned beyond his fondest hopes.

Events are soon to prove whether the hazy dream the childish mind conjured up is to come true, but Antonio d'Annunzio, only brother of the man who is holding Dalmatia's most important port in defiance of the powers of the whole world, believes they are. Antonio is living in Brooklyn and teaches music. Unless his brother's character has changed since last they met, Antonio says, Fiume will become Italian territory and Gabriele d'Annunzio will be the greatest man in Italy.

"As a little tot only twelve year old Gabriele thought he was a big man," mused the brother. "He always said he would one day become a great man. He had a vision in which he was pictured as a person of power with tremendous influence over men. Gabriele was always a he is now, determined and relentless in his convictions. Once he made up his mind to do a thing it was always accomplished. And he was quick, even as a child, in reaching determinations.

"One time Gabriele went down to Naples to say good-bye to a friend who was leaving for Egypt. The friend, just as the steamer was to leave her dock, said: 'Come along,' and Gabriele looked up quickly and answered, 'Yes.' He had no clothing, he was breaking plans and arrangements, but it suited his whim and he went.

"When he determined to do anything there was nothing in the world that could stop him. He would carry his idea through every trial to the bitter end. The spirit he is now showing in Fiume is none other than the one which he had in childhood.

"Even then he was a patriot and even then he showed those traits which later made his life a universally known story. Of course, he did not exactly show his love for sensations then, but he was a tremendous profligate. He got money fast and he threw it away.

"Fiume will be Italian and Gabriele will not be touched. What will come then I do not know. I am sure Gabriele will be uninjured, but I am afraid for his health.

"We were very close when we were young. Here in my desk are letters from him, beautiful, passionate letters, and here are telegrams.

"One night I awoke in the dark to hear my bell ring. Going to the door, I found a telegram from Gabriele with only these words: 'I long to see you.' When my mother was lying sick unto death in Pascara in 1917 I cabled to my brother, asking him to kiss mother for me. Then he cabled back: 'I have kissed the Madonna for you. Be courageous. As I write to you I embrace you.'

Mr. d'Annunzio explained that he and his brother parted when they left for school. Gabriele went to a school at Toscani, near Florence, while his brother went to the Santa Cecilia Conservatory in Rome to study music. After that the two brothers did not have much personal contact except through the family living in Pascara.

BERLIN ORDERS INQUIRY INTO ANTI-SEMITIC CLUBS

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—The newly-appointed Secretary of State for Public Order recently opened an inquiry into the doings of anti-Semitic clubs.

The text of one of the great number of confiscated pamphlets runs: "We do not want to be the slaves of the Jews or of England. We desire order again in the Fatherland, and we want again a sovereign who can lead us."

"We wish to renew the fight against our enemies, and we will win or perish. We must call a man to our head who loves the Fatherland above everything and who is an able leader. We have this man."

Besides these mental weapons a few dozen of rubber batons were found, called "little Cohens," with which to knock out the big Cohens, according to the Pan-Germans.

Peach Tree Grown in Pot.

Recent importations of the United States bureau of plant industry include a pot-grown peach tree from Rev. George Campbell, a South China missionary. A tree only 15 inches tall ripened five good-sized edible clingstone peaches. The plant is said to come true to seed, and it is predicted that fruit growers will develop a remarkable new race of dwarf peaches.

Odd Foods.

Sea urchins' eggs are used in Ceylon as we eat raw oysters here. The Mexicans use a variety of scorpion, after removing the sting, in a special sort of omelet, to which they add a peculiar sort of peppery flavor. A large variety of locusts and grasshoppers are dried, then cooked, by people in portions of India, Arabia and Syria.

WEIRD FLUID PREPARED BY FRENCH PHYSICIAN MAKES STUDY OF FIBRE POSSIBLE.

By NORMAN WATSON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.
LONDON, Oct. 8.—A new invention more remarkable in many ways than the X-ray, has just been perfected by a French scientist, Dr. Jules L. Stein.

The new discovery which Dr. Stein calls the "X-ray fluid" is a liquid, the action of which reveals every detail in the structure of an organism on which it is brought to bear.

When an X-ray is turned on a living thing, or part of such, the bones only stand out in silhouette. When the same thing is submerged in the wonderful new fluid, veins, arteries, tissues and the smallest details stand out clearly.

The perfection of the fluid required seven years of unremitting work. The manner in which the germ of the idea was born is as romantic as the story of Watt and his steam engine.

Sitting at work one day in his laboratory, Dr. Stein suddenly noticed a drop of oil falling upon a piece of paper made the paper transparent. He asked himself the question, if a drop of oil renders paper transparent, might there not be some fluid which will penetrate other substances and make them transparent.

He set himself the task of finding a liquid with a high index of refraction to which a preservative and something that would check evaporation could be added.

If he found it he would be able to make the human body, or any specimen of anatomical study as transparent as he desired. The principle being not to force artificial light through a substance, but by means of the fluid make it pervious to natural light. Mr. Stein's labors eventually were crowned with success.

Writing about his discovery, he says:

"The discovery of the X-rays and their action made it possible to examine the bones of living persons for study in medical science. But for the pathological laboratory and the study of dead body parts, the X-rays are not much use, because the finer details are either lost or made flat and uninteresting. The pathologist needed a preparation with which he could study from all sides and from every point of view.

"It was therefore my endeavor to find a means to study the body parts—the muscular system and the bone structure.

"I found it in my X-ray solution, a fluid which, like the X-ray, penetrates the outer skin and the flesh, but shows not only the bone structure but the finer muscular system."

The degree of transparency obtained by the action of the fluid can be regulated by the operator. It is said a board can be made as clear as glass so that a newspaper may be read through it.

In the case of rare and valuable specimens the advantages of the Stein process are obvious, because the specimens can at the same time be preserved and examined.

DISTRICT CASE BOARDS HELP DISABLED MEN TO SELECT SUITABLE JOBS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (Special)—

The best course to pursue in reestablishing the disabled man in civil life is often a hard thing to decide. When the district vocational adviser of the Federal Board for Vocational Education finds a case too hard for him, he calls together the district case board and lays the facts before them.

This board is composed of a representative employer of the community, a representative employee, and the medical officer representing the Federal Board. The district vocational officer, himself, of course, sits as a member of the board. This board acts in an advisory capacity as to the man's eligibility for training, recommends the vocation suitable to his capabilities in the light of his disability, and the general nature of the course to be provided. This arrangement brings together the different industrial viewpoints, upon which the disabled man is enabled to base his choice of future work.

Here is an illustration of one of the hard cases that the district case board helped settle. The diagnosis of specialists was discouraging, they gave him only two weeks to live, but young Markle had a wife—and a desire to live. Injuries received in France had so seriously affected his heart that he could not return to the manual labor to which he had been accustomed. He came before the case board—six months later he was an interested student at the Oregon Agricultural College, showing progress in his horticultural studies and optimistic about the future.

League of Nations
Idea Suggested
49 Years Ago

AT TIME FRANCO-PRUSSIAN
WAR ERIE PHYSICIAN SUG-GESTED UNIVERSAL AL-LIANCE AGAINST WAR.

(International News Service.)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 5.—The idea of a League of Nations is not a new one, as a suggestion for a league had been made forty-nine years ago by an Erie physician, a descendant of John Harris, founder of this city.

At a meeting of the State Medical Society in 1870, while the Franco-Prussian War was raging, Dr. William M. Wallace, president of the society, whose father was a Harrisburg lawyer and whose mother was a granddaughter of John Harris, in his inaugural address said:

"To the assembly of men now before me, set apart to relieve the sufferings, heal the diseases, and lengthen the lives of men, I would appeal. Must humanity forever be chained down by murderous rulers and methodized passions to the rock of the barbarous custom that the vulture of legal war may forever prey upon its vitals?"

"Cannot the still small voice of reason be heard in this centre and spread throughout the medical world in still widening circles to persuade men that war in any shape and for any cause is really madness and that it settles no principle or right?"

"Can we not add to our mission this yet further benefit to humanity, to teach men to settle national as they do individual differences by arbitrations and awards, by rules and principles?"

"It is a work of time, difficult and laborious, but the hundred-handed giant of medical ubiquity can, by a persevering effort, unite humanity and can force or draw to its assistance the pulpits and the forum, and Christendom may yet learn, through the most unostentatious, investigating, rationalistic physician, that he is not mad, but speaks the words of truth and soberness who declares his belief in the realization of the angel's song: 'Peace on earth and universal good will.'"

Curious!

"Some birds are awfully curious and want to know what is going on. So if they see a human being in their neighborhood they will come close to investigate and perhaps to scold, and one of these birds is the Kentucky warbler. This bird has a preference for woods which are low and damp and ordinarily keeps well within the depth of tangled thickets. This bird which ranges throughout the eastern United States, spends its winter in northern South America."

Funnel Made From Milk Bottle.
A funnel that has a wide range of application about the household, and especially in food-canning season, may be made by cutting the body of an ordinary milk bottle. The bottle is trimmed at the desired point by tying on an alcohol-saturated cord around it and applying a match. The glass will break evenly at that point. After breaking, the edge is smoothed off on an emery wheel and the funnel is ready for use.
